Join this workshop to learn more about the federal regulatory process, the impact of current regulations on counties and the additional policy areas federal lawmakers and the Trump Administration may look to regulate.

Understanding Tribal Policy 101: the Past, Present and Future of County & Tribal Relations:

.....

1:45 P.M. - 2:45 P.M. | COLUMBIA 6 AND 8, TERRACE LEVEL (WASHINGTON HILTON)

Counties and tribal nations across the country have existed for centuries as neighbors and served overlapping communities. Although at times the county and tribal relationship has at times been fraught, many county leaders across the country are looking to foster good working relationships with tribal nations to best serve our shared communities. This comes at a time where the U.S. Congress is seeking to legislatively address the 2009 Carcieri v. Salazar Supreme Court ruling, which could greatly impact county and tribal relations across the nation. During this session, panelists will explore the historical context surrounding federal tribal laws, where county and tribal relations stand today and legislative solutions to foster greater government-to-government relations.
